

Judi Love

Comedian · Presenter · Actor · Podcaster

SHORT FORM

Judi Love is one of the biggest names in British comedy and the first Black British female comedian to headline and sell out the London Palladium, captured in her Amazon Prime Video special The One Like Judi Love: Live. She stars in Last One Laughing UK, has been a Loose Women regular since 2020, and was handpicked to open for Dave Chappelle on his UK arena dates. Her tour All About the Love is on the road across the UK and Ireland.

FULL BIOGRAPHY

Judi Love is one of the biggest names in British comedy: a stand-up, presenter, actor and writer known for sharp, unfiltered, real-life humour.

She made history as the first Black British female comedian to headline and sell out the London Palladium. The show became her Amazon Prime Video special, The One Like Judi Love: Live, now streaming worldwide, and she also stars in Prime Video's Last One Laughing UK.

She is a regular on ITV's Loose Women, joining the show in 2020, and she has interviewed international icons including Janet Jackson and Whoopi Goldberg. She won the Christmas special of Celebrity MasterChef, and was handpicked to open for Dave Chappelle on his UK arena dates, his only female support act.

On screen, she has appeared in Noughts + Crosses (BBC), Sweetpea and Mr Bigstuff (Sky) and Schooled (Channel 4). She also appears in the feature film Girl Group, a new comedy starring Rebel Wilson, with a cast including Jennifer Coolidge, Randall Park, Nicole Scherzinger and Sally Hawkins.

Her comedy is built on honesty. Love started out in 2011 with a show about caring for her mother through dementia, and made her name on warm, no-filter storytelling about parenting, work and the chaos of everyday life. Her current tour, All About the Love, follows a sold-out debut national run.

Off stage, she hosts the podcast Our Table with Judi Love, honest and funny conversations with guests from screen, music and stage.

Born in Hackney, East London, to a Jamaican family, Love holds a Master's in social work and, in 2025, received an Honorary Doctorate of Arts from the University of East London for her contribution to comedy, broadcasting and advocacy for underrepresented voices. She is a single mother of two.

ON TOUR

All About the Love, playing across the UK and Ireland

TELEVISION

Loose Women, Last One Laughing UK, Celebrity MasterChef

LIVE

First Black British female comedian to sell out the London Palladium

SOCIAL REACH

Over one million followers combined